The next PhD Program at CeMM Research Center for Molecular Medicine in Vienna will start in October 2018. We offer 15 fully funded PhD positions and are looking for exceptionally motivated PhD candidates.

The 2018 CeMM PhD Program will focus on the thematic areas of Infection, Immunity, Metabolism, Cancer and Network Medicine. These areas are built on the pillars of epigenetics and genome integrity, bioinformatics and systems biology, chemical biology, high-throughput genetics, genomics, proteomics, and molecular and cell biology.

The successful candidates will be awarded a generous scholarship, which covers all research costs, university fees, work-related travel expenses, salary and health insurance for 4 years. The PhD degree will be awarded by the Medical University of Vienna.

Apply now! The application deadline is 2nd February 2018.
